

'Help revive Eldorado'

THE Eldorado campaign, which is fighting to have the BBC soap brought back to life, today called for help in Aberdeen.

The nationwide network of fans refuse to accept that the sun has set forever on the show, which was axed this month.

And they now need someone in Aberdeen to co-ordinate the campaign in the North-east.

The aim of the group, which has the support of comedienne Victoria Wood, is to bombard the BBC with letters and show how much support the programme has.

Fans hope that if the BBC doesn't take it up, an independent television company might.

North of Scotland co-ordinator, Jamie Robson, who lives in Thurso, said the campaign needed someone in Aberdeen to drum up support.

Anyone interested in joining the campaign can call Jamie on 0847 62932.
